Print media like newspapers no longer offer the level of service they once were able to provide for something like a 'Notice to Creditors'. NoticeConnect efficiently and quickly fills the need through their web based service which is not geographically limited and is very cost effective compared to print media.

ADVERTISE FOR CREDITORS

If you're an estate trustee (either an executor or an administrator), you should publish a notice to creditors to protect yourself from personal liability.

- It is your job to pay the debts of the deceased
- There may be debts you don't know about
- If you don't advertise for creditors, you may end up having to pay these debts out of your own pocket

An estate trustee who advertises for creditors is protected from liability.

As per Section 53(1) of the Trustee Act.

NoticeConnect has been expressly approved by the Ontario Superior Court of Justice.

HOW IT WORKS

We publish your notice in our public, searchable online database. Major creditors regularly search our site.

Our site is search-engine optimized, meaning it's easy for the ads to be found on Google.

Notices are republished on social media.

We send your notice to major creditors and our subscribers.

HOW TO POST

1. Go to www.NoticeConnect.com
2. Select 'Post a Notice' from the menu
3. Click the 'Post as a Guest' button
4. Fill in the required fields and follow the prompts to publish

Publication takes five minutes.

$130 PLUS TAX to publish.

Commissioned affidavits of publication available.

Using a law firm? Tell your lawyer you want to protect yourself from liability with NoticeConnect.
